In a document dated 21 October 2003, the following events were noted: Prior to the start of the interrogation session, the guards and senior staff were debriefed on 052's emotional behavior and attitude over the past four and a half weeks. Since our last phase, 052, though shaken from those meetings, has continued to be arrogant and demanding. 052 has demanded a clock, dental floss, Q-Tips, and socks. He has received socks, due to feeling chilly and to minimize bruising caused from his ankle shackles. He has also received dental floss—which he will not receive anymore, unless given by the Interrogator. His complaints have included:

- being given too much food while he's trying to fast
- given too little food while he is not fasting
- the guards are too slow in bringing his toothbrush when he asks [demands] for it
- Brig is trying to sneak pork into his diet
- guards are purposely providing him with incorrect prayer times
- uniforms too big, too small, and would rather have a two-piece instead of jumpers,

Though his sense of entitlement and control is still evident, his demands have diminished [incredibly] somewhat in frequency and intensity. In addition, 052 continues each day to pump 200 push-ups, walk 4-5 hours, and pray at least 5 times.
